CLUB v. R.G.A.

This game was played on the Club ground, the home team winning by one goal to nil.

The game throughout was spoilt by the wind. From the kick-off the Club had the advantage but their forwards failed in front of goal. Kuhr, playing at centre half, opened out the game, by slinging the ball over to the wings, but the forwards when once in possession would not pass, but went on to shoot and fail. The R.G.A. forwards never got settled and gave a poor display. Half time no score.

Resuming, the play opened in favour of the R.G.A. but the Club's defence was good and G. Rodger was seldom called upon. Following a couple of corners to the R.G.A. the Club opened the score through Teller who received from McPhail close in and gave Woods no chance. From now onwards the game was mostly a tussle between the half back lines and a poor game ended with the Club winners as above.

The Club's middle line were very sound. Kuhr dropping back has greatly strengthened the side. His play in this match was the outstanding feature in a dull game. Raiton and McPhail gave him good assistance. The forwards are still lacking combination and the game suffers thereby. Gerrard and Rodgers were safe at back, although they were not extended by the R.G.A. forwards. F. Rodger in goal had practically nothing to do. The only shot that worried him came from a corner kick.

The R.G.A. were best served by their middle line of whom Lelliott was the pick, well backed up by Donovan. The backs tackled well but their clearing was erratic. The forwards were playing a rushing game and one of them hardly touched the ball throughout the game. Why the R.G.A. kept the play on their left wing was not understood seeing that Veale on the right is the best forward on their side. Woods lacked judgment in goal, although he had no chance to save the goal against him.

The teams lined up as under:—
Club: C. Rodger, Gerrard and J. Rodger; Raiton, Kuhr and McPhail; McFarrish, Beggs, Forsyth, Teller and England.
R.G.A.: Woods; Walker and Frampton; Keay, Donovan and Lelliott; Veale, Wilson, Bascoe, McHugh and Couzans.
Referee: Mr. Jones.

S.C.A. v. WILTS.

At Sookunpoo the Chinese had much the better of the play and won by 3 goals to one. Playing with the wind in the first half they scored twice. Yeung Man Kit sent in a fast shot and Turner was ready to intercept, but Moore in attempting to clear defeated the ball to the opposite corner of the goal from where Turner was standing and the Chinese were one up. The Wiltz took up the attack, but Chan So returned and Ip Kan beat Moore, and going on sent the ball past Turner. Being 2 down the soldiers tried hard to reduce the Chinese lead, but half time arrived with the score unaltered.

Resuming with the wind, the Wiltz pressed—but the Chinese defenders kept their charge intact. From a break away by the Chinese Chu Kwong Young sent over a fast shot from the wing which Turner stopped but failed to hold, and the ball bounced over the goal line. The Wiltz now pressed with vigour and the Chinese packed their goal. Wong Pak Cheong, who had dropped back from centre forward to assist the defence, handled in the penalty area, and Moore taking the kick reduced the Chinese lead.

Encouraged by this success the Wiltz again got down but could not pierce the Chinese defence and time arrived leaving the Chinese winners of a fast game by three goals to one. Moore, the left winger, was absent from the Wiltz side his place being filled by Coe.

It would be advisable to remind some of the men lining the ropes, that ladies are interested spectators at most football matches.

The teams were:—
S.C.A.—Lau Hing Cheung; Chan So and Fung Tai; Cheong Wing Shing; Lung Tai Fong and Leung Yuk Fong; Chan Hwan In, Yeung Man Kit, Wong Pak Chung, Ip Kan and Chu Kwong Young.

Wiltz:—Turner; Trivett and Moore; Sawyer, Lancaster and Peafold; Warren; Swanborough, Menham, Evans and Coe. Referee: Mr. Hollands.

POLICE v. "TITANIA."

On the Navy "B" ground the Police sprang a surprise on the sailors by defeating them by 3 goals to one.

The sailors took up the attack from the kick-off, but Swan cleared and play was transferred, the ball remaining in the sailors' half. Yeoman saved well from Watson and a moment later Valentine missed a pass from the right when standing in front of an open goal. Swan was forced out to clear from Hopkins and Robertson gave to Pearson, but Hutchby cleared. Coming again on the left, Robertson centred. Kerridge made a feeble attempt to clear and Pearson, collecting, sent in a shot that beat Yeoman and opened the score for the Police.

The sailors again got down and Swan using good judgment ran out and cleared from Hopkins. Following a visit to the sailors goal, Garside came down the wing and Clark cleared by kicking to touch.

Hendry came in and Swan, leaving his goal, was beaten by Hendry, and Goodlet tipped the ball into an empty goal.

With the score equal the Police again got down and Pearson sent in a high shot which Yeoman misjudged and the ball landed in the net. The play was fast and each side tried hard to score.

Half time, Police, 2; Titania, 1.

The sailors went off with a rush on resuming but J. Clark and McWaters cleared well. The Police took up the attack and following a corner which was well cleared by Kerridge, Valentine beat Yeoman with a screw shot. With 3 to 1 in their favour the Police settled down to a defensive game and although the Titania tried all means to break through the defence held out and time arrived with the Police worthy winners of a hard and fast game.

On the run of play the Police deserve their win. Although slower they played the better football and a team and on Saturday's play should do well in the League.

This being the sailors' first game in the League they may be excused for the poor display, but they are not the side of last season. The slippery ball may excuse their play but their defence must improve before they can expect to rise to fame. The tactics adopted by a couple of their players will not tend to improve their position in league football.

The teams lined up as follows:—
Police: Swan; J. Clark and McWaters; D. Clark, Forbes and Best; Mair, Watson, Pearson, Valentine and Robertson.

Titania: Yeoman; Kerridge and Glen-ville; McGann, Wilkins and Hutchby; Garside, Hendry, Hopkins, Goodlet and Cooper. Referee: Mr. Williams.

"TAMAR" v. KOWLOON.

On the Kowloon Club ground at Happy Valley the sailors put up the season's first division record, winning by five goals to one. The game opened even but the sailors soon got the measure of their opponents and Hutton scored after 20 minutes' play. Kowloon forced a corner and Mitch saved well from Mason. Half time, Tamar 1, Kowloon nil.

Playing with the wind, the sailors took charge of the game and Brazendale scored for them. Keeping up the attack the sailors went further ahead when Hutton put the ball past Townsend.

From a break away Pascoe beat Mitch and he had saved on two occasions. The sailors again got down and Grant registered goal number 4 for his side.

Mitch saved from Pascoe and Kowloon returning forced a corner. Combes dropped ball in front of goal and Mason skied over the top. Tomlinson was hurt and had to leave the field. Just on time Helliott came in from the right and beat Townsend with a high shot; the goalkeeper running out to intercept was late and Helliott tipped the ball over his head into the net. Time arrived with the Tamar winners as above.

The teams:—
Tamar: Mitch; Smith and Tomlinson; Bryant, Hudson and Grant; Hill, Brazendale, Hutton, Atkey and Abbott.
Kowloon: Townsend; Murrison and Oswick; Goupiland, Weyman and McKelvie; Millard, Mason, Pascoe, Duncan and Combes. Referee: Mr. Moore.

"CAIRO" v. "AMBROSE."

Played on the Navy "A" ground ending in a win for the Cairo by one goal to nil. Bishop replaced Eve in goal while Bennett turned out at centre half for the Cairo. The Ambrose turned out seven new men who arrived only on Thursday last.

Play favoured the Cairo throughout the game and Matthews scored in the opening minutes. The Ambrose defence played well and Coysh made a good debut in the Ambrose goal.

There was no further scoring in the match and a tame game ended with the Cairo winning their first league game. The teams lined up as under:—
Cairo: Bishop; Burke and Thompson; Wild, Bennett and Ryder; Uppington, Gale, Matthews, McClurg and Hindley.
Ambrose: Coysh; Philpotts and Howlands; Parker, Wiscombe and Batterham; Harper, Belsin, Duval, Holden and Fawcett. Referee: Mr. Cheesley.

UNITED v. R.G.A. RESERVES.

Played at Sookunpoo and ended in a draw of one goal each. Kent scored for the R.G.A. and W. Hyder for the United.

CLUB RESERVES v. ST. JOSEPH'S.

On the Navy "A" ground, and Club Reserves turning out sharp to time with a full side. The Club crossed over landing by two clear goals scored by Hyde and Hutchison. Ogley scored twice for the College in the latter half.

UNIVERSITY v. KOWLOON RESERVES.

On the Kowloon ground at Happy Valley the University winning by four goals to nil. Kowloon could only field nine men, Cheah Keng Sing (3) Cheah Tom Lok and Samy scored for the University.

S.C.A. "A" v. "CUDLEW" RESERVES.

On the Navy "B" ground and ended in a win for the Chinese by the odd goal in 3. Kwok Po Kwai and Ping Wah Hing scored for the Chinese and Anderson for the sailors.

HUGBY.

CLUB v. "AMBROSE."

On the Club ground the play favouring the sailors. The Club three-quarters put in a few good runs but inaccurate passing stopped them. Early in the second half Kidson failed with a penalty kick and a moment later Stenbury sent in a dropped kick that just missed the upright. Towards the close the exchanges were rough and at one time no less than five players were stretched out.

Fiddes-Wilson required medical aid and was carried clear of the play. Time arrived with the sailors under the Club's crossbar and the game ended in a point-less draw.

For the Club Keegan played well at back. Jordan, McClatchie and Wallace were good at three-quarters while D. Loggan, Tinsom, Hegarty and Fiddes-Wilson were good in the forwards.

The sailors were good in the scrums while the Club worked better in the open. The grassy ball made it difficult to accept a pass on the run, consequently the whistle was continually sounding for knock-ons.

THE SHANGHAI RACE MEETING.

Analysing the results of the four day race meeting at Shanghai, the N.C. Daily News, says:—

Mr. W. Hill was easily the most successful jockey of the meeting, with 13 firsts, including the Champions, 3 seconds and 4 thirds. His nearest rivals were Mr. A. J. P. Heard and Mr. A. N. Dallas. The remarkable thing was that such fine jockeys as Messrs. C. R. Burkill, F. E. Vida, E. Moller and R. E. Stewart did not gain a single first, whilst Mr. J. K. Brand only secured his solitary win in the last race of the meeting. Messrs. Winsome & Hasty, owners of the Champions, were the most successful stable, with 5 firsts, 3 seconds and a third. Sandy Bay lived up to its reputation of being about the only respectable griffin of the meeting by winning three times out of four.

SHANGHAI GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

Following upon the qualifying round of the Shanghai Golf Club championship, the first of the match play rounds were played at Kiangwan, on November 13th. The following were the results:—
C. W. Porter beat R. J. Bowerman, 7 and 5.
J. Dewar beat C. T. Beath, 2 and 1.
K. M. Cumming beat J. Withington, 11 and 10.
J. B. Ferrier beat W. J. Hawkins, 8 and 7.

Play throughout the day was very good, and in one case a match finished only at the 17th hole.

HONGKONG BOXING ASSOCIATION.

The report of the general committee for the year ending 30th Sept., 1921, states: "From the accounts it will be seen that there is a balance in hand on the general account of $37.77 and on the tournament account of $97 which with the amount carried forward from the previous year gives a credit balance on the 30th September last of $1,585.58."

Donations of $25 each have been made to Earl Haig's Fund and the Boxers Benevolent Fund and the Committee have earmarked a sum of not exceeding $300 for the erection of a tombstone, in due course, over the grave of the late Mr. J. YACHTING.

ROYAL HONGKONG YACHT CLUB RACES.

A CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS.

The first Championship race for Racing Yachts was sailed on Saturday over a course of Stonecutter's Island (S); distance 3 miles. There was a strong north-easterly gale blowing, and there were also heavy squalls, the wind at times blowing a good twenty miles an hour. There was a choppy sea and a chapter of accidents ensued. The Diana had a stay carried away. Bonito's main sail was badly torn and the Dorothy had her mast taken overboard. Despite these disturbances, some close finishes were recorded.

THE HANDICAP CLASS.

In this event Diana was unfortunate in carrying away a stay and had to retire. Dorothea had a small contretemps with one of the vessels moored in the Western Anchorage and lost about 5 or 6 minutes in consequence.

The following is the table of points for the race:—

SUNDAY'S YACHT RACING.

The wind of Saturday had subsided from a strong gale to a strong moderating fair wind by the time yesterday's yacht racing commenced. There were two events to be sailed off, the First Championship for cruisers and the Championship for Chinese rig. The latter race was postponed however, and a friendly, for Chinese Rigs arranged in its place.

The first event produced an exciting finish. At one time it was thought that Azuma (Scratch) had won but Violet, with a handicap of 47 minutes 40 seconds, managed to beat Azuma's time by 1 minute 52 seconds.

GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP FINAL.

FINELY CONTESTED MATCH AT FANLING.

The final match in the Club Championship took place over the Royal Hongkong Golf Club's course at Fanling, yesterday. In the early morning there were dark clouds and it looked very much as if the match would be contested in the rain. For the first half hour or so there was a slight drizzle but on reaching the fifth hole the clouds cleared away and the sun came out which made the conditions almost ideal, except for the high wind. For the morning round there were not many spectators, but the crowd increased in the afternoon and quite a good deal of interest was shown. The course was in very good condition; the rain of the previous day, although not heavy, had done a lot of good. The greens, taking every thing into consideration, played well.

PLAYERS.

Mr. Malville Smith is well known in the colony as an energetic member of the committee and, no doubt, the majority of members were anxious for him to win his first Championship. Mr. Buckland on the other hand has only recently arrived from Singapore and it is to be hoped that he will remain long enough in the Colony to have his name put up on the honours board. Both players are scratch golfers and it was interesting from the spectators' point of view to compare their different styles. Mr. Buckland is more of the orthodox golfer and play by the book whereas Mr. Smith employs his own methods, and, after watching the final, it leaves one to wonder whether the latter's methods are not the best on these occasions. Mr. Buckland gave one the impression that he had too much to think about and lacked confidence. On the other hand, Mr. Smith appeared to have only one object in view and that was to get the ball into the hole. He certainly appeared to have greater confidence in all his shots. A further asset in his putting is, one of the best putters one has ever seen.

Mr. Smith is very steady and a hard man to beat in match play. Mr. Buckland, on the contrary is a brilliant player and capable of almost anything.

THE PLAY IN DETAIL.

Both players were obviously nervous on the first tee. Smith won the toss and took the drive. His first shot was slightly out but he managed to get the length and cleared the bunker. Buckland's drive was badly pushed out and he found the rough. He took a masher niblick for his second from a very bad lie and only managed to get the ball about six yards but clear of the rough. Smith then played his second and topped it. Buckland then played a very fine shot, putting his ball on to the edge of the green. Smith's ball was badly cut and he failed to get it well away, however, he played a good run-up shot and was just five yards past the hole. Buckland then played a good run-up shot within one yard of the hole. Mr. Smith just missed the putt for the 5, leaving Mr. Buckland a one-yard putt for the hole, which he managed to sink.

Driving from the second hole Buckland topped his ball, he had the good fortune to run through the bunker. Smith, on the other hand, got a good drive well down the fairway. Buckland hit a very good second with an iron and was just on the right of the bunker, guarding the green. It looked as if Smith had a very good chance of making the match all square, but he topped his brassie shot and was fortunate not to get into the bunker. With his third shot he was just on the green; Buckland was a little too strong with his approach and had to plan a fourth shot, leaving it one yard short of the hole. Smith then putted his ball up against his opponent's which had to be lifted for him to play his fifth which he holed. Buckland holed his fifth shot and the hole was halved.

At the short third Buckland played a very nice niblick shot from the tee, but was unfortunate in finding the bank on the left of the green. Smith played a straight shot, but he was short. However, he played a good run-up shot and was within one yard of the hole. Buckland had to take his niblick for his second and was six yards from the hole; he putted and he just missed the hole. Smith then holed his putt, which left him the winner and made the match square.

From the fourth tee Smith hit a long low straight ball well up the fairway. Buckland pulled his shot slightly into the dip. The ball was lying well and he was able to take a jigger and put his second shot to the right of the green. Smith did not play a very good second and was only just on the edge of the green. Buckland followed with a very good run-up shot just 8 yards short of the hole; Smith then putted and left his ball three yards short of the hole. Buckland putted and left his ball 8 ins. from the hole, leaving Smith a dead stymie, which in a miraculous fashion, he negotiated, holed his putt for a 4. Buckland missed his putt and lost the hole.

There was a strong cross wind going for the fifth hole, but Smith hit his ball clean and got a long running on to the fairway. Buckland hit a long low shot, but hooked it and found a very bad lie in the rough. He had to take the niblick for his second and failed to get out of the rough. Smith used an iron for his second, which he topped, but was fortunate to find no trouble. Buckland then played a niblick for his third shot, which was unfortunate in hitting the top of the bunker and leaving the ball very short. Smith's third was a lucky one; he topped his shot which ran on to the green and rested 10 yards short of the hole, leaving Buckland another stymie. He took his niblick, but unfortunately, played his ball on to Smith's, leaving him a long putt for a 6. This he just missed and Smith holed for a 5, winning the hole and making him two up.

Smith did not hit a very clean shot and pushed it slightly up the hill, leaving himself a bad hanging lie. Buckland pushed his drive even worse, but he was fortunate in getting a kick which brought him back on to the course. Smith got rather too much under his second shot with his brassie, which did not take him any distance. Buckland with a heavy iron hit a very fine shot without much luck. Smith then played his third, which was a good run-up shot to within 8 yards of the hole. Buckland was 10 yards short of the green with his third and was very short with his fourth, leaving himself a long putt for a 6, which he just missed. Smith holed a good putt for a 5, which made him 3 up.

Going to the seventh, Smith played a good brassie shot into the wind and landed on the green whereas Buckland pulled iron and was short on the green. With his second he was a little too strong and had a long putt for a 3 which he left a yard-and-a-half from the hole. Smith had a good putt, leaving the ball 2 feet short for a certain 3. Buckland missed his putt for a 4, leaving Smith a comfortable 3.

On the eighth hole, there was a strong wind behind and both players appeared to be anxious to get a long ball. Smith topped his drive and Buckland put his halfway up the far side of the ravine. Smith played a good brassie shot but was just short of the green. Buckland was unfortunate in finding his ball in a bad lie and was unable to ground his club. However, he played a very fine second on to the green. Smith was a little too strong with his third and, putting back to the hole, left his ball a yard short. Buckland had a good run-up putt and holed his fourth, winning his hole and reducing Smith's lead to 3 up.

From the ninth tee Buckland hooked his drive badly and the wind getting hold of the ball took it far up the hillside into the rough. Smith got a fair drive which landed on the fairway; he played an iron for his second and put the ball into the dip. Buckland had to play a niblick for his second; he got a good shot and was only a few yards short of Smith. He took a masher for his third shot but, once again, hooked it badly and found the rough. Smith took an iron for his third and slightly pulled the shot, leaving it 10 yards above the green. Buckland then played a niblick which was short, but he had a good run-up shot to within 2 feet of the hole. Smith's run-up shot was a little too strong but he had a good putt and only just missed the hole for a 5. The hole was eventually halved in 15, leaving Smith 3 up at the turn.

From the tenth tee Buckland had a long drive but it was slightly pushed out and found the rough. Smith had a good drive which was slightly hooked. He was lying in a good position, but a very nice second with his brassie and was about 30 yards short of the green. Buckland second was a masher shot being about 20 yards short of the green. Both players had gone run-up shots but Buckland had the advantage. Smith had a good putt and lay within a foot of the hole. Buckland had a very good shot which looked as if it was going in the hole for a 4; but he had the misfortune to run up against a long piece of bamboo grass which just held up his ball short of the hole, and the hole was eventually halved in 5.

From the eleventh tee there was a very strong cross wind and it was difficult for the players to keep their balance on the tee. Both of them missed their tee shots. Smith got into the sand on the right and Buckland being in the rough. Buckland played a very fine iron shot for his second with a slight hook which brought his ball into the middle of the fairway. Smith, on the other hand, played a safety shot, being content to putt his ball into the middle of the fairway, short of the ravine guarding the twelfth hole. Both players played very good third shots, lying within a foot of each other on the green. It was Buckland's putt and he left his ball 2 yards short of the hole. Smith made a good putt, putting his within 8 inches of the hole. Buckland just missed his 6 and left Smith an easy putt for a win which he holed, making him 4 up.

Going to the "Gem" there was a very trying wind. Smith took a jigger for his shot and landed in the valley. Buckland hit a very good iron shot into the wind and was on the left of the green. Smith played a niblick for his second and was a little too strong, his ball travelling to the far side of the green. He played a very fine putt to within a few inches of the hole for his third, which seemed to unnervise Buckland who hooked his putt badly and left himself a long putt for a 4 which, however, he managed to sink, halving the hole.

From the thirteenth tee both players hooked their ball and were lying up against the bank. Smith took a masher for his second and got well clear with a nice straight shot; Buckland played an iron and was just 20 yards short of the green. Smith played a jigger for his third and just managed to find the green. It then looked as if Buckland would win the hole but he duffed his third shot and was only just on the green. Smith played a very good approach putt which put him one yard from the hole. Buckland's approach putt was not good and he left himself a 4 yard putt which he managed to hole and the result was a half-in.

Going to the fourteenth Smith cut his drive but was fortunate not to find trouble. Buckland hit a clean ball but with a slight hook which took him up to the fifteenth tee. Smith was a little too strong with his masher shot and his ball travelled to the back of the green. Buckland played a very nice run-up for his second which left his ball just four yards below the hole. Putting down hill Smith put his ball too much to the left and left a longish putt for a 4, which he spectacularly negotiated. Buckland was just two inches short with his third and had to be content with another half.

From the fifteenth tee Smith again cut his drive but did not find any serious difficulty. Buckland got a little too much under his ball and, although it was straight, he did not get any great length. He played a very fine iron shot for his second, which was unlucky in kicking to the right and putting him into the rough. Smith took a brassie for his second, but smothered the ball and did not travel very far. He then played a masher shot which was not quite strong enough to get over the rise of the green. Buckland's third was half-topped, and although it travelled in the right direction it was a little strong and he had to play his fourth shot, which he put 5 yards past the hole. Smith then played a good run-up putt, leaving his ball one yard short and leaving Buckland a half-stymie, which he just failed to negotiate. Smith then holed his putt for a 5, winning the hole and making him 5 up.

At the 16th hole the wind was again troublesome, but Smith hit a good tee shot, leaving the ball just short of the green. Buckland also had a very good tee shot but was a trifle unlucky with the kick, which sent his ball to the right of the green and short. Smith was short with his run-up shot, but holed a very good putt for a three. Buckland was 6 yards past the hole with his approach putt and failed to hole his third, leaving Smith the winner.

From the 17th tee Smith again cut his drive and was fortunate to remain on the fairway. Buckland got a very bad pull and found his ball against a fir tree in an almost unplayable position. He took a niblick and got very well out but not clear of the rough. Smith hit a good second with his brassie well down the fairway. Buckland took an iron for his third and again pulled on to the side of the hill; he took a niblick for his fourth and put the ball well on to the middle of the green. Smith played an iron for his third and was also on the green. It was Buckland's putt and although he hit the ball in the right direction it was too strong and ran over the hole. Smith had a good putt and left himself a certain 5, winning the hole.

From the 18th tee Smith hit a good drive playing to the left of the fairway to avoid the bunkers. Buckland got too much under his ball and only just reached the bunkers. He played a beautiful iron shot into the wind which landed on the far side of the green. Smith's second was very short of the green but he played a good run-up shot. Buckland had a good approach putt and was lying for a safe 4. Smith went boldly for the hole and only just missed halving it.

At the end of the first round Smith was 4 up, due mainly to his good putting. Buckland, on the other hand, had putted badly, taking three putts on nine greens. The approximate scores for the 18 holes were as follows:—

SMITH:—Out: 6, 5, 3, 4, 5, 3, 5, 6=42.
In: 5, 5, 4, 5, 4, 5, 3, 5=41.
Buckland:—Out: 5, 5, 4, 5, 6, 5, 4, 6=46.
In: 5, 6, 4, 5, 4, 8, 4, 7=45.

THE SECOND ROUND.

There was still a strong breeze afteriffin and it was hardly expected that the players would return low scores. Smith took the honour and got a badly hooked shot in front of the ladies' clubhouse. Buckland also hooked his shot but was lying on the fairway. Smith took a brassie for his second which was slightly pushed out. Buckland half topped his shot which ran over the green into the rough. Smith got a nice third about six yards past the hole and Buckland ran his third about five yards past. Smith was two feet short with his putt and Buckland was almost down with his fourth, the hole being halved in 5.

Smith hit a beautiful tee shot well down the fairway but Buckland pushed his out badly into the rough. He played a good niblick for his second, just short of the bunker and again a good niblick shot, just 4 yards past the hole. Smith failed to pick up his second shot and hit the face of the bunker. He just managed to get out with his third and was a little too strong with his masher, leaving Buckland the winner of the hole in 5.

Driving from the next tee Buckland used his masher niblick and hit a beautiful shot to the right of the pin. Smith played a masher and just found the green. With his run-up he was 5 yards to the left of the hole; holed a good putt, he managed to scrape a half in 3.

Both players hit good shots from the fourth tee. Smith had a bad lie for his second and only half hit it. Buckland had a good second and was just 8 yards past the pin. Smith was on with his third and down in 5. Buckland was too strong with his approach putt but was unlucky in not holed his fourth and had to be content with a half.

At the next hole Buckland hit a very fine tee shot. Smith getting a bad pull into the rough. He got well out, however, into the middle of the fairway, but Buckland's second was too good and he won the hole in 4, reducing Smith's lead to 4 up.

At the sixth hole Buckland pushed his drive badly and was trapped behind a fir tree. He failed to get out in his second and only just managed to move the ball with his third. His fourth shot was also unsuccessful and he picked up, leaving Smith 5 up.

BRITISH HELP FOR YING-TAK.

THE SUPPLY OF PROVISIONS.

The consignment of food-stuffs forwarded by British merchants in Hongkong for the relief of the sufferers from the fire at Ying-tak, to which reference was made in a previous issue, should have been taken from Canton to its destination by a British gunboat. When the Fairbank arrived the gunboat was in readiness, with steam up, to carry on the good work, but it was learned that there was not sufficient water to permit the journey being completed and arrangements, therefore, had quickly to be made for the transport of the supplies by rail.

The British Consul at Canton personally interested himself in the matter; the Vice-Consul sought and obtained from the Authorities the necessary escort to prevent robbery or molestation and himself accompanied the supplies and superintended their distribution in the devastated district.

It is not pretended, of course, that the help thus provided was sufficient to meet all needs, but it proved of considerable value in a number of distressing cases of poverty and helplessness, and, it is almost unnecessary to say, was most warmly appreciated by the recipients.

The Canton Times of Saturday has a leading article expressing appreciation of the gift. "We quote the two opening paragraphs:—The British Vice-Consul informed the Government yesterday that the people of Hongkong had contributed five tons of cooked food stuffs for the relief of the sufferers in Yingtak whose homes have been completely destroyed by fire. This is a very gracious gift and is deeply appreciated by the Government. Our neighbours have given this substantial proof of their neighbourliness and their kindly feeling toward the people of Kwangtung. This act of charity is the more gracious because it comes unsolicited, for though a missionary sent out an appeal, the Government felt there had been so many requests for assistance that any solicitation for fund at this time would be inopportune. But the benevolence of our friends exceeded the faith of our Government."

ROBBERY.

A Chinese woman reported to the Central Police Station, last night, that her house at 36, Gagg Street, had been broken into during her temporary absence in the afternoon. Clothing, jewellery and money to the value of $20 are alleged to have been stolen.

Smith was short with his fourth and too far with his fifth which enabled Buckland to win the hole in 5. Playing to the 11th hole, Buckland, and pulled his drive on to the 12th green. Smith hit a good drive straight down the fairway but he lost the advantage by topping his second into the ravine. Buckland had a good second, by topping his second, Smith then played a masher for his third which he smothered and failed to get clear of the rough. Both players were lying side by side in the rough and Smith had to play his fourth which he put just short of the green. It looked almost certain that Buckland would win the hole but he duffed his third and his ball rested in an almost unplayable position. He got well out of this trouble but was short of the green. Smith put his fifth 5 yards past the hole but holed his next shot with a good putt, winning the hole in 6, against Buckland's 5.

Smith hit a very good tee shot with the jigger which landed hole-high. Buckland was a little too strong with his tee shot and was over the green. His run up shot was also too strong and he took two putts to get down. Smith, taking the same number, won the hole and increased his lead to 4 up.

Smith's drive at the next hole was short, but on the fairway, he forced his second with a brassie but failed to pick it up. He had a cupped lie for his third and put the ball below the green. Buckland had not a good second but put his third nicely on the green. He had a good approach putt and won the hole in five. Going to the fourteenth Buckland duffed his drive which ran down the hill. Smith did not hit a very good ball but he was nicely on the fairway. Buckland again duffed his shot and was short of the green. His run up shot was unlucky, landing on a soft piece of ground. Smith had a nice run-up shot for his second, being three yards to the left of the pin. Buckland's putt was a good effort for a 4 but just failed. Smith had a good approach putt and holed his next shot for a win. He was now downy 4.

Both players hit good drives for the fifteenth. Smith played a jigger for his second and was just short. Buckland played a very nice run-up shot and was just on. Smith was four yards past the hole with his third and Buckland was 3 yards short. Smith failed to sink his putt and Buckland ran his down for a nicely played 4, keeping the match still alive.

Buckland took an iron to the sixteenth and pulled it into the rough. Smith's drive was about 20 yards short of the green but on the fairway. Buckland had a bad lie for his second and failed to reach the green. Smith had a nice run-up shot but it had an unlucky kick to the left. Buckland was 4 yards short of the hole with his third and Smith put his approach putt to within 2 feet of the hole. Buckland failed to sink his fourth which left Smith the winner by 4 up and 2 to play.

The approximate scores for the sixteen holes were as follows:—
SMITH:—Out: 5, 6, 3, 5, 5, 5, 4, 4, 7=44.
In: 7, 3, 3, 6, 4, 5, 4, 5=35.
Buckland:—Out: 5, 5, 3, 5, 4, 8, 3, 4, 5=42.
In: 5, 7, 4, 5, 5, 4, 5=35.

PRESENTATION OF THE CUP.

After the match a large number of players assembled in the Club house where Mr. G. T. Edkins presented the cups to the winner and runner-up. Mr. Edkins congratulated them and complimented the runner-up on putting such a fine fight in the afternoon, after being down on the end of the morning round. He expressed the hope that Mr. Buckland would remain in the Colony and have a further chance of carrying off the championship.

METHODS OF CONTROVERSY.

We are reluctant to devote the space necessary to reply in detail to four columns of vituperative argument in the China Mail the other night which professes to expose our "intellectual dishonesty" in discussion, but serves in point of fact very effectually to prove itself the sinner in this respect. A few of the most glaring instances will suffice:—

(1). Our contemporary in its advocacy of the abolition of extra-territoriality in China, had made the statement that "extraordinary privileges were extorted from China, but from no European nation where the laws were bad." We replied that the writer of this had evidently forgotten, if he ever knew, that the Western Powers had enjoyed extra-territorial privileges in the Ottoman Empire from time immemorial. Our contemporary now says:—"When we spoke of no European power being asked for extra-territoriality, we did hesitate a moment with the case of Turkey in mind, but then decided to let the passage go; in the belief that no honest reader could be misled by it. If the D.P. cares to insist that Turks are Europeans, of course, we must concede the point. But that does not altogether vitiate the point we were making." Is that an example of "intellectual honesty"?

(2). Our contemporary had said we were not sincere in our profession regarding the Canton Government's violation of the sanctity of contracts "because mus tui sale contracts are recognised by the [Hongkong] Government and it wants them repudiated." The statement was so new to us that we asked for information as to when these sale contracts were "recognised by the Government." Our contemporary's reply is that he suspects we have "no eye or ear for irony." That, we suppose, is another example of our contemporary's "intellectual honesty" in debate. Is it the Daily Press or the China Mail which ignores what it cannot answer?

Concerning the subject of the "sanctity of contracts" we are treated to a disquisition on "the deliberate attempts" of the Daily Press "to mislead public opinion, in the interests of disappointed concessionaires." The italics are our contemporary's and the allusion is to our citing the Cassel agreement as an instance in proof of the allegation we had made against the Canton Government. Our information of that subject is based entirely on the published text of the agreement and such statements as have appeared in various newspapers on the subject. We are not conscious of serving any interests other than that of common honesty. Our contemporary's method of re-stating the argument is characteristic of its usual methods of controversy. It sets up an analogy which is no apology at all and it ignores completely the important fact that this contract was no purely local arrangement, but one which had the full approval and sanction of the national Government of China as being essential to its validity. We say again, without any special consideration for the concessionaires, that the refusal of the Canton Government was a violation of the pledge it offered to the Powers to "scrupulously respect the legitimate rights of the Foreign Powers and their nationals, duly acquired by treaty, contract, or established usage."

Most of our adversary's tirade is concerned with the question of extra-territoriality. He has been stung by our remark that in his advocacy of the abolition of extra-territoriality in China he is supported only by Russian Bolsheviks who are willing to pay that price for official recognition of the Soviet by the Government of China. We are told that this is "either a lie or an ignorant mistake." We are unable to recognise it as either. Our contemporary reminds us of "a little history," and takes us back to a time prior to the sixteenth century, when "although foreigners were not as well behaved as they are now, the Chinese were most hospitable and liberal and tolerant." Foreign residents in China should be grateful for this certificate of character. "Later on," we read, "our grandfathers decided that China need not be considered as within the pale of international law, and that no British subject should be subject to Chinese authority in China." If our critic will continue his study of history down to the Nineteenth Century he will learn that there were abundant grounds for that decision. It was a decision taken by the Powers—certainly by the British and American Governments—with great reluctance and only under a sense of stern necessity. As showing that he does not stand alone in his denunciation of extra-territoriality our critic quotes some expressions of opinion by the late Sir ROBERT HART ("not a wholly unbiased witness," as our contemporary is willing apparently to admit), and quotations are also made from a report to the Home Government by Consul ALCOCK in the Fifties. We can well believe that "the worthless character of a numerous gathering of foreigners of all nations, under no effective control, is a national reproach as well as a public calamity." But is this the character of our contemporary would give to the foreign communities in China to-day? If it is not, the quotation is utterly irrelevant. (We may interpolate here the information that it was this same Consul ALCOCK who got himself into trouble with Sir JOHN DOWLING by writing:—"A salutary dread of the immediate consequences of violence offered to British subjects... seems to be the best and only protection in this country for Englishmen.") We were not discussing what happened before the Powers established "effective control" over their nationals who came to China, but the conditions that have existed since effective control was established—the conditions that exist to-day—and we repeat that we know of no support for our contemporary's advocacy of the abolition of extra-territoriality save the offer made to China by the Bolshevik authorities.

Finally we come to our contemporary's references to the surrender of extra-territoriality in Japan, a little more than twenty years ago. We ridiculed the suggestion that the Powers consented to waiving it there because "Japan was strong," but retain it in China because "China is weak." Our critic quotes as proof conclusive of this view a remark by Professor CHAMBERLAIN to the effect that "Japan's marvellous successes [in the war with China] made resistance to any of her demands increasingly difficult." Is it not mirth-provoking to be told that the great Powers of the world deemed it necessary to yield to Japan's "demands" in this respect because she had impressed them with her display of naval and military strength against China? Long before the Japan-China war Japan had been earnestly at work reforming her laws and raising the standard of their administration in order to meet the views of the Powers as to what was necessary to justify their surrender of extra-territoriality. Our mentor may find enlightening information on this subject in the earlier editions of Professor CHAMBERLAIN'S "Things Japanese," published some years prior to the war with China. It is supremely ridiculous to suggest that the Powers were terrified—we suppose that is what our contemporary means—into waiving extra-territoriality because of the victory Japan had gained over China in the war of 1894-5. The plain fact of the matter is that Japan had satisfied the Powers that the reforms she had made in her judicial administration entitled her to ask for the surrender of extra-territorial jurisdiction by the Powers. We did not say that there was a general recognition on the part of the foreign residents in Japan that the laws were satisfactory; what we said was that the Powers—the Governments—were satisfied that the Japanese laws and the arrangements made for their administration warranted the surrender. We are well aware that it may be said of the English residents of Japan at the time that they "almost unanimously" objected to the surrender, but there were some at least who recognised, as the Ministers of the Powers did upon due examination by competent investigators, that the Japanese laws and the arrangements for their administration had been brought to such a standard as entitled Japan to make the claim. When that can be said of the laws and the arrangements for their administration in China we have no doubt that the Powers will be equally willing to accede to China's desires in the matter, however anxious the majority of foreign residents may be that the status quo should be maintained. The Powers stand pledged to do so, and it remains for the Chinese Government to satisfy their requirements, which they certainly cannot do at present.

We do not know where to look for the "red herrings," we have "put across the plain trail," but in wading through the slimy stream of vituperation in the columns of our contemporary we have been very forcibly reminded of the cuttle-fish whose characteristic is that, when pursued, it exudes an inkly slime to discomfit its pursuers.

The Shanghai Gazette says:—"We understand that there are no less than ten ships to be fitted up in Shanghai very shortly for the Eastern trade. They will fly the Chinese flag but it is suggested that there will be substantial German interests connected with them."

Notice is given in the Gazette that unless cause is shown to the contrary, the Ying Fat Un Co., Ltd., will be struck off the register and the Company dissolved, at the expiration of three months.

The Public Works Department at Canton proposes to widen the road from the Bund to Sai-kwan into a modern "macadam" passing through the scene of the recent fire in Tung Man and Ching Yuen Streets. A similar proposal is under consideration with regard to the area cleared by fire at Sap-Pat-Po.

According to the Department of Agriculture and Commerce, at Peking, 16 million tons of coal was mined in China, all told, in 1919, of which only 2,800,000 were excavated by Chinese, but four years later the total output was increased to 21,300,000, of which 5,400,000 tons were taken out from mines under Chinese management.

Regulations have been made by the Captain Superintendent of Police and have been approved by the Governor-in-Council with reference to medical treatment of police officers. It is laid down that a subordinate officer shall be entitled to free medical treatment and be subject to no stoppages of pay. An exception to this is that if the disease is a disease of misconduct, or a sickness or injury self-inflicted, the officer shall have free treatment but no pay. In the cases not covered by the exception sick leave on full pay, for 25 days in any year may be granted. All subordinate officers who are entitled to free quarters and all officers whose salaries do not exceed $200 a year may obtain free medical treatment and reduced hospital fees for their wives and children.

BAZAAR AT THE ITALIAN CONVENT.

The Italian Convent in Caine Road was given over, this week end, to the annual bazaar for which the Sisters and pupils bazaar for a good many hours each week, throughout the year. Three hundred pairs of busy fingers had amassed a great many articles, some pretty and trifling, others handsome and valuable and all on sale in aid of various institutions in which the Italian Convent is interested. These include the Wanchai Home, the West Point Foundling House and two other homes for orphans and invalids in the interior of China. The principal hall of the school was crowded with purchasers all the time the sale was open. In other rooms a bran tub, lotteries and other amusements were conducted. The Convent was able to provide accommodation under cover for all visitors so that the stormy weather on Saturday proved an advantage rather than otherwise. Mr. Gonzales and his string band kindly lent their services.

The bazaar was opened by the Italian Consul who expressed his surprise at the great number of articles made by the scholars. Mrs. Galuzzi, the Rev. Fr. Maria and Mr. Owen Hughes were amongst those who attended.

WASHINGTON CONFERENCE.

JAPAN'S REQUEST FOR INCREASED TONNAGE NOT APPROVED.

WASHINGTON, November 19th.

It is indicated officially that the American delegation regards the relative strength of navies in the American disarmament proposal as the fundamental principle, any alteration of which might seriously affect the whole negotiations.

LATER.

GREAT BRITAIN'S OPEN ATTITUDE.

An authoritative statement says that the British delegation is ready for complete ventilation of the question of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance before the Far Eastern committee.

Though the British decision to suspend the construction of four battleships is received with very great satisfaction in America there is little prospect of Congress stopping the construction of American battleships. It is stated that if the Conference results in an agreement by the nine participating Powers other nations will be invited to adhere to it.

CHINA AND THE ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE.

WASHINGTON, November 18th.

An authoritative Chinese statement says that China opposes a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance and desires the nullification of the Lansing-Ishii agreement.

BRITISH VIEWS ON VARIOUS QUESTIONS.

An authoritative statement regarding Britain's naval views discloses the fact that aircraft are not regarded as having displaced capital ships in warfare. It is submitted that aircraft bombardment of cities might be justified because of the pressure exerted by such attacks on enemy Governments. By contrast, submarines, which are described as an "instrument of assassination" are incapable of exerting a similar influence. The statement denies a report that Britain ever formally proposed one ship annually; this would amount to repudiation of Mr. Hughes's holiday plan. In connection with the Anglo-Japanese Treaty it states that Britain is quite prepared to consider the conclusion of a tripartite agreement on the revision of the present understanding in a form entirely unobjectionable to the United States. It is recognized that the Senate would be unlikely to approve of the former.

JAPAN'S NAVAL CLAIM DISAPPROVED.

LONDON, November 19th.

From all appearances the Americans look unfavourably on the Japanese request to increase her relative naval strength. Administrative officials point out that the Hughes ratio was the natural result of applying the principle that the present proportionate strength should be preserved in the reductions agreement.

CHINA PROPOSES CONCERT OF PACIFIC POWERS.

A scheme is outlined which, a Washington telegram says, the Chinese will advance for a permanent concert of the Pacific Powers. The main features of it will be regular and periodic sittings; secondly, the convening of a special session on any member's demand; thirdly, a permanent secretariat; fourthly, provision for the institution of a commission of enquiry into any dispute. The correspondent explains that the necessity for such a scheme is due to recognition of the fact that the Conference cannot settle Pacific problems permanently.

JAPANESE VIEWS ON CHINESE PROPOSALS.

WASHINGTON, November 18th.

Baron Shidehara is to present the Japanese views on the Chinese proposals at to-day's meeting of the Big Nine.

BRITISH LABOUR AND DISARMAMENT.

LONDON, November 19th.

On the occasion of the Washington Conference the National Joint Council of Labour has issued a manifesto on Anglo-American relations in the shape of a declaration of a policy of fraternity to American labour. The manifesto declares that there can be no solid Anglo-American friendship or co-operation till the Irish question is settled. It demands the extension of the American disarmament proposals to all forms of armament and says that under no alliance could Labour contemplate being dragged into war with America. Therefore, the Anglo-Japanese Alliance should not be renewed. It is of opinion that until peace treaties are revised and an association of all nations formed there can be no firm foundation for international peace or disarmament. It concludes by saying that if British and American labour could co-operate in furthering their common views on foreign policy this would be a very great step towards permanent world peace.

SCHEME TO REMEDY CHAOS IN CHINA.

LONDON, November 20th.

There is but little fresh news from Washington correspondents regarding the trend of affairs apart from a meeting of the Far Eastern Committee. It is confidently foreshadowed, however, that a scheme will be formulated with the object of remedying the internal chaos to which China is prey. The problem will be sedulously to avoid infringement of China's sovereignty. On the other hand, an arrangement will probably be made to rectify many such existing contraventions. An impression is gained that the Chinese Government is loath to avail itself of foreign aid on the consortium plan which is necessary to enable restoration of order, but acceptance of this is regarded as ultimately inevitable.

A CLOUD ON THE HORIZON.

Another cloud on the Conference horizon, which remains to be dissipated, is the question of the readjustment of the disarmament ratio desired by Japan. America apparently is strongly averse to this and it is noted that publicity is given to the fact that Mr. Balfour and Admiral Beatty protractedly conferred with Mr. Hughes a few minutes after the American view on Japan's demands were made known. An impression has taken root in some quarters that the situation is rapidly crystallizing to a point where Britain and America may unite in favour of Mr. Hughes's plan against the important Japanese modifications.

BARON KATO STATES JAPAN'S VIEWS.

WASHINGTON, November 20th.

An official communiqué states that at a meeting of the Far Eastern Committee, Baron Kato, on behalf of Japan, offered the opinion that China's difficulties were equally domestic and concerned with external relations. He contended that China ought to be left to work out her former. Japan was desirous of cultivating the happiest and most serviceable relations with China, uninfluenced by a policy of territorial aggrandisement anywhere in China. He asserted that Japan adhered, unconditionally and unreservedly, to the policy of the "Open Door" and of equal opportunity in China. She depended on China to supply essential Japanese raw materials and foodstuffs without the latter claiming special rights. As regards the question of the abolition of extra-territoriality Japan intended to co-operate with the other delegations in order to arrive at an arrangement fair to everybody.

NEW DREADNOUGHT MAY BE SCRAPPED.

NEW YORK, November 20th.

The dreadnought West Virginia which was successfully launched at Newport News is scrappable under the disarmament scheme.

EARLIER CABLES.

BRITAIN SUPPORTS THE OPEN DOOR.

WASHINGTON, November 18th.

British opinion is that the open door can be best realized by international co-operation, with the assistance of traders. It is incidentally suggested that the development of China would be greatly helped by the construction of railways which would help the relations of other nations with China. It is also indicated that no strong British objection will be made to the relinquishment of Weihaiwei and other similar leasedhold territory. It is authoritatively stated that Britain is anxious to do everything possible to enable China to assume her proper place in the commercial world. Britain thinks that this is best attainable through the policy of the open door, leaving China free to carry out her own destiny.

REMARKABLE JAPANESE PROPOSALS.

LONDON, November 18th.

The Manchester Guardian's Washington correspondent cites a report with reserve, although declaring the authority good, to the effect that the Japanese delegates will propose the following terms regarding China: Japan to surrender Shantung and the Twenty-One Demands of the spring of 1915; Japan requires a closer definition of the open door and the integrity of China, contends that China should consist of the eighteen provinces south of the Great Wall, excluding Tibet, and proposes a Japanese protectorate over Manchuria as over Korea; and urges Britain to take over Tibet.

SYMPATHY WITH CHINA.

NEW YORK, November 18th.

The New York Times regards it as of good augury that Great Britain, Japan, and France received the Chinese proposals with approval, and hopes that this attitude will be maintained, because the guarantees for which China asks are indispensable to a good understanding regarding the East, and for the execution of any naval agreement. The New York World thinks that the proposals would be more easily dealt with if a stable Chinese Government existed, and considers that China asks nothing not inherently belonging to every nation. The journal is of the opinion that the Western nations must give proof of their good faith by placing China on her feet politically because they cannot well insist that Japan should make all the sacrifices.

WARSHIP BUILDING SUSPENDED.

LONDON, November 18th.

In connection with a report from Glasgow that Clyde contracts for three capital ships have been suspended, that shipworks are also affected, and that Parkhead Forge closes to-morrow, enquiry at the Admiralty shows that instructions have been despatched to the firms engaged in building the four warships of the super-Hood type not to incur further liabilities on the new construction until further instructions.

NEXT PLenary SESSION.

WASHINGTON, November 18th.

Mr. Hughes has summoned the next plenary session of the Disarmament Conference for Monday, when, it is expected, Mr. Briand will explain the French view on land armaments, as neither the Naval Armaments committee nor the Far Eastern committee is likely to be ready to report on Monday.

AN ARMAMENT MAKER'S CONFES-SION OF FAITH.

NEW YORK, November 18th.

Mr. Schwab, President of the Iron and Steel Institute, declared that disarmament might involve a loss to armament makers, but if permanent peace was possible he would gladly see the war-making plants of his companies sunk at the bottom of the ocean.

THE PRINCE IN INDIA.

INFORMAL RECEPTION OF NATIVE RULERS.

BOMBAY, November 18th.

The Prince of Wales this morning demonstrated the sincerity of his desire to know India intimately. In simple morning dress and attended only by two aides-de-camp he held at Government House a quiet reception of native chiefs in the Bombay Presidency. The latter consented to waive ceremonial, gun salutes and guards of honour to which they are entitled. This abrogation of precedent proved deeply gratifying to the Prince of Wales. This is the first occasion in history on which the native governing classes have informally called on a member of the British Ruling House. The Prince of Wales's return visits will be equally informal at the Willingdon Sports Club on November 22nd when the native chiefs will give a tea party in his honour.

The Prince of Wales this afternoon attended the semi-finals of the Commemoration Polo Tournament and played a game with his staff. He attended a garden party held by the Bombay Municipality and after dinner spent an hour at a ball in Government House. He subsequently moved through the illuminated city to the station departing for Poona at midnight.

POONA, November 19th.

RIOTERS AND POLICEMEN KILLED.

BOMBAY, November 19th.

The outbreak in the bazaar district on the day of the Prince of Wales's arrival was followed by a non-co-operation meeting. There were bonfires of foreign clothing at street corners. The crowds were swelled by idle mill hands. Five trains were set on fire, a liquor shop burnt down and Europeans stoned. Trains were suspended and the military called out. There was street fighting. Gandhi and others unsuccessfully tried to persuade the crowds to desist from violence. Four policemen were killed and 13 seriously wounded. Three rioters were killed by revolver shots and some wounded. Many were arrested. All is now quiet.

CALCUTTA, November 19th.

The hartal on November 17th in connection with the Prince of Wales's visit in India passed tranquilly. Owing to increasing intimidation and molestation of the police by the Bengal non-co-operation corps it has been decided to proclaim these corps illegal associations.

REJOICINGS NOT AFFECTED.

POONA, November 18th.

The Prince of Wales laid the foundation of a war memorial.

BOMBAY, November 19th.

The disturbances this morning did not affect the programme of rejoicings on the occasion of the Prince of Wales's visit. The streets in the evening were thronged with pedestrians viewing the illuminations and decorations. No question of a strike arose as the day was a public holiday.

GANDHI'S CURIOUS CHANGE OF ATTITUDE.

LONDON, November 20th.

An extraordinary change in Gandhi's attitude is reported from Bombay, according to a statement which Gandhi has sent to the press. He declares that a revival of the non-co-operation campaign is again shattered. He confesses that he was chiefly instrumental in creating a spirit of revolt, but that now he is incapable of controlling it or of succeeding in the campaign unless a policy of complete non-violence is followed. He proposes to observe a fast of twenty-four hours weekly as a penance.

FULLER PARTICULARS OF BOMBAY TROUBLE.

BOMBAY, November 18th.

Further particulars of the disturbances show that they originated when the rioters unsuccessfully attempted to prevent people reaching the Prince of Wales' procession. The rioters later attacked the holiday-makers on returning. There were several police casualties which are now stated at four killed and thirty seriously wounded due to the fact that the great majority were on duty along the procession route.

The military rescued isolated parties and in the course of clearing the affected area encountered barricades where the rioters resisted very stubbornly until nightfall, necessitating several bayonet charges. Troops and police were throughout stoned from house-tops. One European passer by was beaten to death. Two hundred rioters were arrested owing to stoning. In many mills which have since restarted the hands were compelled to cease work.

THE "SNATCHING" EPIDEMIC.

TWO MORE CASES IN COURT.

In answer to a charge of having snatched an ear pick from the hair of a Chinese woman, a young Chinese man told Mr. Lindell, at the Magistrate's court, that he pleaded guilty and would not waste his Worship's time. He was forced to commit the offence, owing to lack of food and clothing.

The Magistrate: What did you do with the ear-pick?

Defendant: I was not successful in getting the pick from her hair. When I touched her hair she screamed and I had to run away.

The accused was sent to gaol for nine months and ordered two strokes.

A Chinese youth was brought before Mr. Orme, on Saturday, and charged with snatching a gold and rattan bangle from a Chinese child aged three years.

The complainant's mother, in giving evidence, said that about 4 p.m. of the previous day, the child was playing outside the house. The defendant came along, caught hold of the child and snatched the bangle from her arm. The child cried and the mother saw the thief run away.

A Chinese policeman, who was off duty at the time, deposed that he was passing down Whitfield Street. When he saw defendant running away he gave chase and caught him in a Chinese latrine. The bangle was not in his possession but was discovered amongst some waste paper close to where the accused was standing when caught.

Sgt. Carpenter said that there was nothing on the record against defendant. He had been employed up to recently by the Tramway Co.

Mr. Orme said it looked as if defendant had yielded to sudden temptation. The accused would have to go to prison for two months.

SIX STOWAWAYS.

EFFECT OF UNEMPLOYMENT IN THE STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

At the Magistrate's court, on Saturday, six Chinese were charged before Mr. Orme with stowing away on the s.s. Van Cloon. Inspector Spear, of the Water Police, said that three of the defendants pleaded guilty, the other three had stated that they had lost their ticket. There were 1,500 steerage passengers on the boat and the Inspector said that there were no means of checking stowaways, who could freely mingle with others as deck passengers. Unemployment at Singapore was the cause of the large numbers of Chinese returning to their own country. A sentence of one month's hard labour was passed in each case.

OPIUM DEN RAIDED.

A flat at No. 219, Shanghai Street, Yau-mat, was raided by Revenue Officer Lanigan on Friday night and 360 taels of raw opium, valued at £720, seized. Two Chinese found on the premises were arrested and brought before Mr. Orme, at the Magistrate's court, on Saturday.

The first defendant said he was the cook. During his master's absence he had been left in charge. The second defendant said he was only a visitor to the house.

Mr. Orme imposed a fine of $4,800 or eight months' imprisonment upon the first accused. The other man was discharged.

JEYES FLUID

In many Hongkong Residences Jeyes Fluid has a firmly established reputation, in others the importance of the choice of a disinfectant has not been thoroughly realised, the selection being left more or less to the No. 1 Boy or to the Compradore.

How many people in Hongkong and the Coast Ports take the trouble to examine the label on the tin to make sure they have received JEYES.

While there are several preparations on the market which are efficient, there are many so-called "disinfectants" which are quite useless. All they are good for is to mask one disagreeable odour by producing another which is less offensive.

Beware of "Disinfectants" that do not disinfect! Ask for JEYES and refuse Substitutes.

ARMISTICE DAY AT MANILA.

A NOTABLE SPEECH BY THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

The Manila correspondent of the Times sent home a very long telegram on the Armistice Day celebrations in Manila from which we quote the following:

On Armistice Night a banquet followed by a ball, was given in the Manila Park Pavilion by the American Legion and the Allied Veterans, which was attended by several hundred guests. During the banquet General Leonard Wood delivered a stirring speech. Referring to irresponsible rumours concerning a dangerous friction between the United States and Japan, which a late have been mischievously whispered about from lip to lip, General Wood said that as an American himself he knew what was in the heart of the American people, and that he had only recently returned from a visit to Japan where he and his colleagues had been shown the warmest hospitality and friendliness by all elements of the Japanese people. He was able to vouch for the sentiments of the American people toward Japan: they were cordial, neighbourly, and sympathetic. He was convinced that these sentiments were heartily reciprocated by Japan. He admitted that some differences of policy and some differences in the national points of view did exist, but these differences can be, and they will be eliminated or adjusted by a display of tolerance and fair play on both sides. It was unthinkable that two enlightened peoples could contemplate the possibility of a resort to force, for the settlement of these differences—mere differences of opinion, without animus, which can be settled by peaceful discussion at the council table.

General Wood warned the Legion that certain influences are still abroad, influences subtle and dark and dangerous, that are plotting and scheming to engender distrust and jealousy among these peoples who had been comrades in the world war. These noxious influences must be exposed and demolished. He reminded them that America had hitched her wagon to a star. Her aims were high. Her ideals were unselfish. There was no dominating spirit of aggression behind her actions. Her impulses, taking them by and large, were wholesome and honest. But in order to make good her lofty aims, to achieve her high ideals, to support her doctrine of peaceful development, to insure that her influence shall be felt and her word heard in the council halls of the world, America must keep herself in training and on the alert. He was not of those who dared to believe that mankind had yet reached that utopian stage of development where physical prowess had become a negligible quantity, or that the world was yet ready for total disarmament. When your neighbours indicate too inquisitive concern about the strength of your doors it might seem a good time to double the number of locks on them. Nevertheless a general limitation of armaments was universally demanded, because a reduction of expenditures for war-like purposes had become vital to the moral and economic health of the world. He had faith that the great Conference now assembling at Washington would discover means to accomplish a workable arrangement to this end.

General Wood paid a glowing tribute to the deeds and sacrifices of the British, American and the British peoples in the world war. He gave the highest praise to the spirit shown by the women of England and the part they played in the winning of the war. Indeed, he said, the women of all countries, France, Belgium, and of his own country, America, had been splendid. They had done their share, and a hundred times more than their share toward delivering the coup de grace—the knock out blow—to the enemy. He was proud beyond measure of the part America had taken, of the things she had accomplished, of the courage, the energy, the unconquerable spirit she had shown after the Allies were indeed waging a Holy War, and she had unsheathed her sword and joined the great crusade. But the heroic stand made by France, Britain, and little Belgium during the first terrible years of the war must never be depreciated nor forgotten. America had not won the war. Britain had not won the war. France had not won the war. But the team work of France, Britain, America, Italy, Japan, Belgium and the other allies had won the war. We had stood together then. We must continue to stand together.

Her impulses, taking them by and large, were wholesome and honest. But in order to make good her lofty aims, to achieve her high ideals, to support her doctrine of peaceful development, to insure that her influence shall be felt and her word heard in the council halls of the world, America must keep herself in training and on the alert. He was not of those who dared to believe that mankind had yet reached that utopian stage of development where physical prowess had become a negligible quantity, or that the world was yet ready for total disarmament. When your neighbours indicate too inquisitive concern about the strength of your doors it might seem a good time to double the number of locks on them. Nevertheless a general limitation of armaments was universally demanded, because a reduction of expenditures for war-like purposes had become vital to the moral and economic health of the world. He had faith that the great Conference now assembling at Washington would discover means to accomplish a workable arrangement to this end.

General Wood paid a glowing tribute to the deeds and sacrifices of the British, American and the British peoples in the world war. He gave the highest praise to the spirit shown by the women of England and the part they played in the winning of the war. Indeed, he said, the women of all countries, France, Belgium, and of his own country, America, had been splendid. They had done their share, and a hundred times more than their share toward delivering the coup de grace—the knock out blow—to the enemy. He was proud beyond measure of the part America had taken, of the things she had accomplished, of the courage, the energy, the unconquerable spirit she had shown after the Allies were indeed waging a Holy War, and she had unsheathed her sword and joined the great crusade. But the heroic stand made by France, Britain, and little Belgium during the first terrible years of the war must never be depreciated nor forgotten. America had not won the war. Britain had not won the war. France had not won the war. But the team work of France, Britain, America, Italy, Japan, Belgium and the other allies had won the war. We had stood together then. We must continue to stand together.

General Wood said that America had hitched her wagon to a star. Her aims were high. Her ideals were unselfish. There was no dominating spirit of aggression behind her actions. Her impulses, taking them by and large, were wholesome and honest. But in order to make good her lofty aims, to achieve her high ideals, to support her doctrine of peaceful development, to insure that her influence shall be felt and her word heard in the council halls of the world, America must keep herself in training and on the alert. ENGLISH IN GERMAN HIGH SCHOOLS.

English is going to be the favoured language in Germany. At a meeting of the Bavarian Landtag the Education Minister stated that, although Bavaria could draw up an education curriculum only in agreement with other German States, yet the beginning of a more intensive study of the English language was foreshadowed by the new educational proposals whereby the English language would be obligatory in the high schools.

French would become optional as the second foreign language to be studied. At the German Educational Conference which met at the beginning of the month it was decided that this question was a most important one. Further action was taken regarding the French language by recommending that in the southern districts of Germany, Spanish or Italian should be the second language. French should be the second language, French being excluded altogether from the school curriculum.

CHINESE CUSTOMS ROLL OF HONOUR.

UNVEILING OF A TABLET AT SHANGHAI.

The Chinese Maritime Customs "Roll of Honour" memorial was unveiled at the hall of the Customs Club, Boone Road, Shanghai, last week, by Mr. E. Gordon Lowder.

The tablet, which is of bronze with raised letters in brass, is mounted on a carved teakwood base about six feet by four feet, and was designed by Mr. E. N. Flashman and the work executed by Messrs. Hall and Holtz, Ltd. At the head of the mounting is a trophy of arms surmounting a laurel wreath with the carved monogram "C.M.G." and below the honouree names: H. M. Boucher; W. Breze; B. D. Bruce; H. Chénery; D. Clutterbuck; T. E. Coker; E. V. R. Dean; M. H. P. Destian; N. A. Ditté; E. M. France; R. Good; W. C. Ladd; G. K. Leach; H. G. M. Mansel-Pleydel; G. F. March; J. C. Outcheon; W. J. Poulter; C. P. Raeburn; P. Sherratt; C. R. Stevens; C. Whiles; J. A. Winling.

Below is embossed the words "The Great War, 1914-1918," and on the teak mounting below representation of a Chinese scene of coast scenery with junks in full sail.

A large gathering of Customs men were in attendance, the memorial being draped with the Customs flag, silk banners and the Customs Jack, whilst in front was an altar covered with the Customs flag and a laurel wreath on top.

Mr. Lowder said: "This is an occasion which does not call for many words from me. We are met here to-day to unveil an outward and visible token to the imperishable and glorious memory of those of our comrades in the Customs service who answered the call and who have passed to the beyond. May this memorial be an ever present incentive to us and to them who come after us to endeavour to live worthily of those who gave their lives in the cause of justice and humanity and whose name liveth for evermore."

Mr. Lowder then drew the covering aside and the Dean of Holy Trinity Cathedral, the Very Rev. C. J. F. Symons, closed the short ceremony with appropriate prayers.—Shanghai Mercury.

SHANGHAI AVIATORS' FALL.

LUCKY ESCAPE OF MESSRS. FRESSON AND LEACH.

The N.-C. Daily News of November 14th says:—

Mr. Fresson, the well known former military aviator, and Mr. D. W. Leach, the popular Interport member of the Cricket Club, have been receiving the congratulations of their friends on a remarkable escape from death which they experienced on "Armistice Day." Mr. Fresson has done a considerable amount of flying over and around Shanghai in Major W. R. McBain's 1915 Armstrong-Whitworth aeroplane and it will be remembered that he thrilled the crowd in the British Consulate grounds on Empire Day when he executed some daring manoeuvres close over the troops assembled for the parade there.

It was with the intention of repeating the performance, witnessing from the air the naval parade on Race Course and other happenings, that Mr. Fresson went up between 10 and 11 on the morning of Armistice Day, taking Mr. Leach with him as a passenger. They had scarcely got into flight when the engine showed signs of trouble and it was noticed that the radiator was leaking. Finally, the engine stopped and the pilot started to plane down to the ground.

The machine was down to 200 feet when it encountered an air pocket—one of the flying man's greatest dangers—side-slipped and crashed. The controls jammed so that Mr. Fresson could not move them with his hands though he pushed with his feet at the same time with all his strength.

Mr. Leach, with great presence of mind, seeing that a crash was inevitable, climbed to the fuselage and hung on, thereby breaking the force of his own fall. The pilot was strapped in and would undoubtedly have been killed but for the fortunate fact that the machine tilted and fell sideways, so, though both men were considerably shaken, the only real damage was to Mr. Fresson's face, which was cut, but not seriously.

The machine appeared to be a hopeless wreck, but Major McBain said that it might be possible to rebuild it. There is, however, considerable doubt about this. It is decidedly humorous to learn that, in such an unenviable experience, Mr. Leach's first thought, on coming to ground and finding his companion, and himself alive and whole, was to make a plunge for a camera which he remembered was on board, in the hope of getting a photograph of the wrecked machine just as it landed. Luck was all out that morning, save as regards health statistics, for the camera, too, was damaged and photographs could not be taken.

AMBER GLASSES.

Amber lenses have proved to be most efficient for out-door wear in the tropical sun. All irritating light rays are absorbed and the result is a restful feeling to the eye and a relief from the white glare. Amber lenses are especially recommended to those whose work takes them in the sun. Army officers find them indispensable on the range; persons contemplating a sea voyage will find these glasses almost a necessity. Amber lenses of any prescription—in either regular or Toric forms—are manufactured by The Hongkong Optical Co., Successors to Clark & Co., Scientific Opticians, located in Queen's Road Central.—Adv.

FIRES AT SHANGHAI.

Several outbreaks of fire are reported in the latest papers from Shanghai. A fire, regrettably attended with heavy loss of child life, occurred in a quarter commonly known as the "Beggars Home," situated in an area of North Dixwell Road, outside the International Settlement. The area has for many years been the abiding place of impoverished Chinese coolies who have passed the stage of active work, and probably never will work, of thieves and counterfeits, and their children. About 2,000 families, including about 1,000 richa coolies and their relatives, were rendered homeless. Mr. Geo. Matheson and the staff of the Richa Mission were hard at work distributing food to these unfortunates, in addition to which some 300 or 400 were housed at night in the mission's halls.

Another outbreak earlier in the same day was on the extensive premises of the China Import and Export Lumber Co., situated on the river side near the Power Station, some five or six miles from the Settlement. The big blaze continued for about two hours, threatening to involve other important property in the conflagration, but fortunately the damage was confined to this one building, with loss estimated at about Tls. 300,000.

The company announces that the work of the mill will be carried on without interruption, and that arrangements will be put in hand at once for the construction of a new mill, this time to be of reinforced concrete.

The Central Fire Brigade on the 19th instant were called out four times, i.e. to the fire at the lumber mill fire, to 177, Canton Road, thence to 108, Avenue Road and finally to the Chapei fire. The fire at 177, Canton Road was in a godown containing various other material to the value of Tls. 70,000. On the following day the Brigade had to turn out to three fires, the most important being an outbreak in Hankow Road which, for a time, owing to shortage of water, threatened to spread and consume whole blocks of buildings. Fortunately the water came on quickly enough to enable them to suppress the flames after the upper stories of six buildings had been burnt out.

INCREASED TRADE WITH BOMBAY AND CHINA.

A London message dated October 10th says:—The September trade returns contain further evidence that the recovery of trade which followed the termination of the coal stoppage made further progress last month, though the total gain is not so great as in August. Exports in September were the best since April, their value being £63,341,000 which is about £2,300,000 above the August figure. Imports at £87,118,000 were about £1,450,000 less than in August. Thus the adverse trade balance is £23,770,000 against £27,250,000 in August. Exports of yarns totalled 15,697,000 lbs. weight against 15,285,000 in August while exports of piece goods totalled 325,000,000 yards, compared with 112,000,000 in August, a feature being the considerable increase in the trade with China and Bombay, and the heavy decline in trade with Bengal. While 20,000,000 and 27,000,000 yards were exported to China and Bombay respectively, compared with 12,000,000 and 18,000,000 in August, the exports to Bengal totalled 61,000,000 compared with 80,000,000 in August.
